TORONTO — William Sturley, 28, of Toronto Wednesday was sentenced to two weeks hard labor planting trees for the city on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds for cutting down a $200 Christmas tree there.

But he may not be able to serve the sentence.

Robert Stewart, business agent of Civic Employees'
Union' (CLC), Local 43, said later: "I don't care what the magistrate said . . . this man is not a member of our union so he can't work."

Sturley was charged with theft after police caught him hauling away the 12-foot blue spruce. Magistrate Donald Graham put him on 12 months' probation with two weeks to be served working at the CNE next summer.

"This would constitute a violation of our contract and our men would walk off the job rather than work with a non-union man," said Mr. Stewart.

Then There Were Three

NEVER IN ANY SENSE A purely local squabble, the problem of Kashmir has now taken on aspects of additional concern to the Commonwealth and to the Western allies. Projected new talks between India and Pakistan on the question raise the hope of possible progress in what is becoming increasingly an emergency, but outside observers give the conference little chance of significant success.

The agreement to hold talks is seen as a triumph of British and American diplomacy, achieved in the shadow of Chinese aggression on India's northern border, rather than an indication of desire by either Rawalpindi or New Delhi to nego-

The fact appears to be that, even if either government were of a mind to compromise on Kashmir, the public indignation and hatred that periodically has been whipped to fever heat in both India and Pakistan would make any significant concessions impossible.

The controversy that has divided the two neighbors for more than 15 years is perhaps farther from settlement now than it was at the beginning. The savage fighting that featured the quarrel for more than a year was terminated in January, 1949, by a cease-fire which has been supervised by the United Nations ever since. The factor which has added to the complications is that the disputed territory is now divided into three parts instead of India has long held some three-quarters of the country, based on the fact that the reigning maharajah agreed to Indian possession. Pakistan's claim is based on the fact that the population is overwhelmingly Moslem—hence should join the Moslem portion of the parti-tioned subcontinent. But such was the state of public opinion in Pakistan that India's defeat and discomfiture were hailed with delight in many quarters, and British and American military aid to India was viewed with resentment and distrust.

The lesson to be learnt from this is surely, that the command of nuclear power in the West, if it is to balance Soviet nuclear power in the East, cannot be divided. The Assembly of Western European Union was absolutely right to pass, unanimously, a resolution asking for the integration of allied nuclear forces into a single NATO nuclear deter rent, within a single command struc-ture, under the control of a single political executive representing the alli-

PARIS:

Very Own Bomb

By WILLIAM MILLINSHIP

THE Cuban crisis and the British anguish over the future of the Sky-bolt missile have strengthened French determination to develop their own nuc-lear strike force, whatever the cost. Despite the new wave of speculation about the possibilities of a European or NATO nuclear system, the French chose the week of the Atlantic Alliance Ministerial conference to reaffirm their intention to go it alone in the atomic field.

General de Gaulle, in a message to parliament, said that a national atomic force was essential to France's role within NATO. The Prime Minister, M. Georges Pompidou, enlarged this point, arguing that a French nuclear capability strengthened European defence. He pointed to America's handling of the Cuban affair as an illustration of the basic fact of life: "that the rapidity and vigour of a nation's reaction depends on the seriousness of the threat it feels to its own existence." In other words, the U.S. would risk a nuclear war in defence of Chicago, but might hesitate if Lille or Hamburg were threatened.

The French realize that the cost of their national deterrent will be high.

They would welcome any British or U.S. help that would provide short cuts and climinate unnecessary expenditure on duplicated research. But General de Gaulle's guiding rule is that you never get anything for nothing in interna-tional affairs. He is unwilling to accept hower has not been forthcoming. The French are, therefore, working alone in this field too. Experiments with a natural uranium power plant were an expensive failure, but, according to the current project, the first missile-carrying atomic submarine will be ready for service by 1969. The estimated cost of three vessels of this type is about

It is impossible at this stage to give a realistic estimate of the project, but the U.S. has proved repeatedly that missiles are extremely expensive, and the French have a long way to go-especially in the development of an effective guidance system.

In addition to this long-range planning, the French are going ahead with the construction of a fleet of supersonic jet bombers which they hope to have operational by 1965, and abie to carry French-built A-bombs. While this nuclear strike force has top priority, the French also propose to reorganize their conventional forces and replace the obsolete and worn-out equipment used in Algeria with modern weapons.

Save Money

Yet all this, the government promises, will be done without increasing taxation. We feel that everyone on our gift list, particularly the children, will be happy The idea is that money will be saved by reducing the strength of the armed forces from 1,000,000 to 700,000 and that to know that they have "shared" with forces from 1,000,000 to 700,000 and that some starving child or lonely old continued economic growth will enable the country to spend more on defence We hope this will serve a three-fold without raising the proportion of the gross national product devoted to the 1. These facts, and the government's eva-siveness when questioned on defence mat-ters, leave an impression that the government is not at all certain what is defence posture should be.

But silence cannot conceal the serious inconsistency of a policy that accepts a nuclear role for Canada in continental air defence and in the NATO shield in Europe, yet re-fuses to accept nuclear weapons to carry out this role.

Up until very recently the government's declared reasons for delaying the nuclear decision were plausible enough. Canadian forces couldn't use nuclear warheads until they had received the nuclear weapons sys, tems, and in the meantime nuclear abstention strengthened Foreign Minister Green's hand in working or universal disarmament. But now the troops have the weapons systems, and more than ever before the disarma ment talks seem frozen in futility. So, what

My report on Tuesday dealt with the efforts of one Liberal MP, Paul Hellyer, to apply logic to the facts as he sees them Hellyer would have Canada live up to its commitments by signing a bilateral agreement with the U.S. that would make nuclear event of war. He put this proposal forward as his own personal view, not Liberal policy and Liberal leader Pearson quickly under Liberal MP, C. M. Drury, held the Commons to pin-drop attention with a superbly reasoned argument for a non-nuclear role for Canada if one can be found that would be acceptable to our NATO partners as an equally effective Canadian contribution. He suggested our highly-trained professional military force backed by a highly-industrialized economy would fit us for a major role in the essential task of dejection of enemy bombers, missiles and submarines. And with the strengthening of conventional NATO forces in Europe, he said, there would be many new military roles that Canada could assume.

It is either this, he said, or carrying out our nuclear commitments.

The essential difference between Hellyer and Drury is that the former would have Capada carry out its commitments, and then try to develop a more suitable and satisfac-tory defence posture. Drury would look for non-nuclear alternatives immediately, and if could be found, then proceed as com-

Both men are defence experts. Hellyer is a former associate defence minister, and has acted as the Liberals' defence critic in the Commons since 1958. He served in the wartime RCAF. Drury, a wartime brigadier, later deputy detence minister under the Liberals, is a newcomer to the Commons.

It is the measure of the government's indecision, of Diefenbaker-Green mugwumping on defence, that it is left to the opposition to formulate defence policy proposals in light of the new policico-military circumstances that have developed since the Cuban crisis policy by its inaction.

United Kingdom exports WIFE SAVES HUSBAND BY CLOBBERING WOLF

RIVER VALLEY, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Isidore Carre grabbed an axe and killed a timber wolf that attacked her husband on his farm Wcdaesday.

Mr. Carre, who was released from hospital after treatment, said he was in the stable when his two dogs started barking and ran in. When the frightened dogs refused to leave the stable he went out to investigate.

"Just as I had stepped out the door I saw this hig black figure leap at me," he said. "It must have jumped 10 feet to grab me by the throat, I was thrown to the ground and we rolled over until we were at the stable entry. I was yelling and my son-in-law ran to my rescue."

Mr. Carre and his son-in-law, Fernand Legault, managed to force the wolf's jaw open. Just then Mrs. Carre arrived with an axe and chopped the animal down.

The wolf's fangs penetrated two inches in the left side of Mr. Carre's throat.

Weston Bids For French Store Chain

LONDON (CP) - Canada' Garfield Weston is going to try to bring down the price of French beefsteak.

The multi-millionaire grocery king told a London meeting of shareholders. Tuesday that he hopes to sign contracts Friday to take over a big grocery chain

British newspapers quoted Weston as saying that President de Gaulle has given him the go-ahead to "break up" the car-tels and price rings that make meat a luxury item in France.

Weston already owns a string of some 2,000 supermarkets in North America, Britain and Eu-

No one I've talked to knows when the carol service originated, but Mrs. D. W. Cobbett, St. Margaret's principal, tells me it was first held in Christ Church Cathedral and moved in 1943 to St. John's.

Penny bought one yesterday and thought she would store it by her desk for a few hours. Now it is doubtful if she will ever get it home. Her boss won't give it up. It is so much faster getting around the office and so exciting, zigzagging around the maze of desks.

This has proved one thing, however, the trike is sturdy. This second hand machine looks as good as new but it was only half the price.

Bicycles, which are going up in price in most stores, are being reduced in this particular shop. There just isn't room for the proprietor and all those wheels.

Fund Given $68 By School Girls

If you had $68.70 to give to charity what would you do with it?

That is the situation that confronted the graduating class at St. Margaret's school recently. The grade 12 class at the school holes an annual tea and gives the proceeds to charity.

Each class selects the appeal it wants to support. This year the class chose the Times appeal for "Friend-ship Dollars for India." Some of the girls have heard Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova speak about the work of the Unitarian Service Committee. It is this organization which receives all the money raised by the appeal.

When they told the others about the USC the class had no difficulty in deciding what fund to help. (See picture and list of donors on Page 3.)

Go out on a limb. serve Seagram's Gin

That's the spirit! While most folks deck the halls with colourless gins, you serve up Seagram's Gin with its hint of amber colour. The difference, of course, is dryness. By ageing Seagram's Gin longer we remove unwanted sweetness and perfumery. As the gin becomes crisply dry. Nature supplies that amber tint. So remember, 'tis the season to serve Seagram's. -Because it's extra dry.
